Equity research and research update

For thorough information regarding the essence and compilation of equity research and research update please turn to the „Background information“ and „Information to the customer“ sections of the respective equity research or research update which are available at <https://www.swedbank.ee/private/investor/portfolio/invnews/?language=ENG> .

Equity weekly

Equity weekly is a compilation of news, corporate events, companies' results and other similar information published in stock exchange notifications last week, an overview of Baltic stock exchanges of the same period and a weekly timeline of upcoming corporate events of listed companies. Weekly may contain references to effective price targets and investment recommendations of companies mentioned in previously published research reports and may update such price targets and recommendations on the basis of important new information. Price targets and investment recommendations referred to in the weekly are based on the analysis made in previously published research reports and in case of any updates to price targets or investment recommendations, the weekly will bring forth the reasons for such update. Previous research reports and information on how the price targets and investment recommendations are constructed in research reports are available at <https://www.swedbank.ee/private/investor/portfolio/invnews/?language=ENG> .

Quick comment

Quick comment is published on the same or on the next banking day a listed company publishes its financial report and contains the published results and other important events of that company. Quick comment includes an opinion on whether the results were up to the expectations or not. Quick comment contains references to effective price targets and investment recommendations of the company mentioned in previously published research report and may, as a result of the results of the company, confirm such price targets and recommendations, declare them to be taken „under review“ or set a new price target. If the company already was „under review“, quick comment may include a statement on the condition of the company or a new price target. Price targets and investment recommendations referred to in quick comment are based on the analysis made in previously published research reports and in case of any updates to price targets or investment recommendations, quick comment will bring forth the reasons for such update. Quick comments are usually given about companies that are covered by Swedbank (as defined below) but may in extraordinary cases be given about other companies as well. In case of the latter, price targets and recommendations are not mentioned as they do not exist. Previous research reports and information on how the price targets and investment recommendations are constructed in research reports are available at <https://www.swedbank.ee/private/investor/portfolio/invnews/?language=ENG> .
